

THE PRACTICE

King & Wood's Dispute Resolution Group is among the largest and most highly regarded in the Chinese legal profession. We provide unparalleled depth and breadth of experience, sophistication, and cultural competence. We have helped many of the world's leading companies avoid commercial disputes in China through negotiation or settlement discussions. We also represent clients in high stakes litigation and arbitration proceedings. In addition, we have represented leading Chinese companies in complex multi-jurisdictional arbitration and court proceedings outside China. King & Wood is the firm of choice for China related commercial dispute resolution.

China-related dispute resolution presents many unique challenges: differences in language, legal backgrounds, civil procedures and court structures are only a few of the features that make litigation and dispute resolution in China unique. When a crisis occurs, we offer our clients expert local knowledge, an international perspective, and a practical approach to navigating challenges.

Domestic litigation and alternative dispute resolution

Our domestic dispute resolution team combines a superior knowledge of local procedures with the expertise of our attorneys in each specialist practice area. With experience before the People's Courts, administrative bodies, and arbitration commissions at all levels, the domestic litigation and alternative dispute resolution team can deliver reliable and effective representation throughout China.

Cross-border and multi-jurisdictional disputes

Sino-foreign commercial transactions are becoming increasingly sophisticated and can sometimes involve complex cross-border disputes. King & Wood's dispute resolution team is capable of advising on all China-related aspects of cross-border disputes.

King & Wood attorneys have represented clients before most of the major international arbitral commissions including CIETAC, ICC, SCC, HKIAC, SIAC, LCIA, GAFTA and FOSFA .
